COLUMBIA, MO., Oct. 28.—(Special.) The cutive board of the Missouri state board agriculture, has decided here yesterday, tended indefinitely the cattle quarantine ulations for 1908. There were present D.
Ely, president; J. R. Riney, secretary;

E. Grover, John W. Hill, L. F. Luthy and J. Waters.

The live stock inspector when they are free of Texas fever infection. Shipping vats will probably be established in the future and this will be a big saving and engaged in handling cattle. In the opinion of the state board of agriculture the experiments conducted by it and the Missouri experiment station at Columbia have demonstrated beyond further question that thorough dipping in extra Dynamite oil, as recommended, will effectively kill Texas fever ticks and thus destroy the means of conveying the infection from one state to another and that in future the

The board was forced to decide against quarantine regulations. The reason for the fact that a large majority of the exposures occurred in the state during the present season it was found that the infection was introduced prior to the enforcement of the quarantine regulations. The heat of the season keeping the tick alive until considerable numbers of the exposures occurred. The young ticks in the pastures and from these the infection was transmitted to native cattle later on. The board will en-

It was forwarded to Washington. A notice was also received by him from Fort Worth, Tex., for the reduction at the stock yards there of the charge for dipping cattle from 50

In Arizona, as in most of the West, the sheep interest has greatly improved the last two years. J. D. Houck, Holbrook, T., who is here with 4,000 yearlings, says that the flockmasters of his section are fairly prosperous; that the number of sheep in the territory has been greatly increased the last year. Not only have the flocks been increased by breeding, but 100,000 to 50,000 California sheep have been brought into the territory since spring. Hampshire bucks are also being freely intro-

"We will handle more cattle in Livingston county this year than last," said J. W. Avery, of Livingston, Mo., who was one of the speakers yesterday. "Young cattle are plenty and the country is full of roughness, and corn is a good three-quarters crop. But while there will be good many cattle roughed through, full siding will be light."
